THE [NUMB. 889.]

South-Carolina Gazette.

From MONDAY May 20th, to MONDAY May 27th, 1751.

LONDON, MARCH 21.

BETWEEN ten and eleven o'clock laſt night died, at Leiceſter-houſe, (to the utmoſt grief and concern of his royal family and houſhold, and inexpreſſible loſs of the public) the moſt high, puiſſant, and moſt illuſtrious prince FREDERICK-LEWIS, eldeſt ſon of our moſt gracious ſovereign George II. prince of Great-Britain, electoral prince of Brunſwick-Lunenbourg, prince of Wales, duke of Cornwall and Rothſay, duke of Glouceſter and Edinburgh, marqueſs of the Iſle of Ely, earl of Cheſter, Carrick, and Eltham, viſcount of Launceſton, baron of Renfrew and Snawdon, lord of the Iſles, ſteward of Scotland, knight of the moſt noble order of the garter, one of his majeſty's privy council, chancellor of the univerſity of Dublin, fellow of the royal ſociety, firſt commiſſioner for building the royal hoſpital at Greenwich, governor of the Britiſh white herring fiſhery, &c.

This excellent and well-beloved prince was born on the 20th of January, 1706-7, and on the 27th of April, 1736, married the princeſs Auguſta of Saxe-Gotha, by whom he has left iſſue five ſons and three daughters, viz.

Princeſs Auguſta, born July 31, 1737.

Prince George, born May 24, 1738, who ſucceeds his royal father, as heir-apparent to the crown of theſe realms, &c.

Prince Edward-Auguſtus, born March 14, 1738-9.

Princeſs Elizabeth-Caroline, born Dec. 30, 1740.

Prince William-Henry, born Nov. 14, 1743.

Prince Henry-Frederick, born Oct. 27, 1745.

Princeſs Louiſa-Anne, born March 8, 1748-9.

Prince Frederick-William, born May 13, 1750.

Upon his royal highneſs's death orders were iſſued for ſtopping all public diverſions.

At nine laſt night his royal highneſs thought himſelf much better, and told Dr. Wilmot he might go home; but, a little after ten, he complained of a violent pain in his ſtomach, and died in leſs than a quarter of an hour. 'Tis thought his ſudden death was occaſioned by the burſting of an impoſthume in his breaſt.

His majeſty is ſo greatly affected with the loſs of his highneſs, that he did not go to the houſe of peers to-day, as was intended.

To form a juſt eſtimate of the nation's loſs by the death of his royal highneſs, one ſhould be able to do juſtice to his character; but that is more than we dare venture to undertake, and therefore leave it to ſome maſterly hand to tell the world, that the joy of Britain is withered, her hope is gone: The merchant's friend, the protector of arts and ſciences, the patron of merit, the generous reliever of the diſtreſſed, the accompliſhed prince, and the fine gentleman in private life, IS NOW NO MORE! —— Weep all ye inhabitants of the land, pour out floods of tears, let there be not a dry eye in the nation; humble yourſelves under this fatal ſtroke, and deprecate the wrath of heaven, who ſeems to have taken away this great and good prince for our numberleſs crying ſins.

Her royal highneſs the princeſs of Wales, who ſo eminently excels in every thing that is truly amiable, has diſcovered an almoſt unexampled tenderneſs for his royal highneſs during his illneſs, ſhe having never been in bed the whole time, notwithſtanding ſhe is within two months of her time, 'till this morning ſix o'clock, and riſing again about eight.

Whitehall, March 21. It is this day ordered in council, that in the morning and evening prayers, in the litany, and in all other parts of the public ſervice, as well in the occaſional offices as in the book of common prayer, where the royal family is particularly appointed to be prayed for, the following form and order ſhall be obſerved, viz. Their royal highneſſes, the princeſs of Wales, the duke, the princeſſes, the iſſue of the prince and princeſs of Wales, and all the royal family.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, March 23. Orders for the court's going into mourning on Sunday the 31ſt inſtant, for his late royal highneſs the prince of Wales, viz. the ladies to wear black bombazine, plain muſlin, or long lawn, crape hoods, ſhamoy ſhoes and gloves, and crape fans. Undreſſed, dark Norwich crape. —— The men to wear black cloth without buttons on the ſleeves or pockets, plain muſlin or long lawn cravats and weepers, ſhamoy ſhoes and gloves, crape hatbands, and black ſwords and buckles. Undreſſed, dark grey ſtocks.

London, March 23. Laſt Thurſday meſſengers were diſpatched to the prince ſtadtholder, queen of Denmark, princeſs of Heſſe, prince of Saxe-Gotha, and to the other courts of Europe, with the melancholy news of the death of his royal highneſs the prince of Wales.

The ſame day his highneſs's ſtomach was opened, and there was found a large abceſs form'd upon the lungs, which burſt, and is ſuppoſed to have been the immediate cauſe of his death.

And laſt night orders were iſſued for embalming his body, and preparing for his funeral.

A moſt ſolemn funeral anthem is now compoſing by Dr. Boyce, to be ſung at his royal highneſs's interment.

His majeſty, the princeſs of Wales, and prince George, are (thank God) in a tolerable good ſtate of health, after their great loſs.

We are aſſured that his majeſty has wrote a very affecting letter to her royal highneſs the princeſs of Wales, condoling her highneſs on the loſs of the prince her conſort, and expreſſing his deep concern at the leſs of his ſon; aſſuring her highneſs alſo that nothing ſhall be wanting in his power to complete her future happineſs.

Her royal highneſs's dowry is 50,000 l. per annum, to be paid quarterly, free of all deductions.

Laſt Thurſday her royal highneſs the princeſs of Wales retired to Kew.

Both houſes of parliament have ordered addreſſes of condolance to be preſented to his majeſty, ſuitable to the occaſion.

We hear that prince George, and prince Edward, who were to be put under the care of lord North and Guilford, will, will, in a few days, with the two eldeſt princeſſes, be moved, by his majeſty's direction, to apartments in St. James's houſe, there to be educated under proper preceptors. And 'tis alſo ſaid, that prince George will not be created prince of Wales 'till he is 17 years of age, agreeable to the manner of prince Henry, eldeſt ſon of king James the firſt.

LONDON. February 12.

The king of the two Sicilies has juſt eſtabliſhed a new Junto, or College, wherein are to be received all the propoſals which ſhall be made for the advancement of the commerce of his kingdom, and the queſtions and diſputes which ariſe among merchants diſcuſſed. Ten perſons are to compoſe this college, of which the Marquis de Fogliani, prime miniſter, will be preſident; and they are to aſſemble once a week.

London, Feb. 16. We hear that the land-tax for the preſent year will be three ſhillings in the pound.

A bill is ordered into parliament for granting certain privileges to poor married perſons, to promote marriage, for the increaſe of his majeſty's ſubjects.

'Tis ſaid that ſeveral men of war are actually ordered to be got ready for ſea by the latter end of March; probably only to relieve thoſe now in the Weſt-Indies;—tho' ſome pretend to know that the affairs in the North are at a criſis, and that they are deſtined for the Baltick.

London, Feb. 19. Near forty ſhips are fitting out in the river for the Greenland trade for the enſuing ſeaſon.

'Tis ſaid a bill is brought into the houſe of lords to alter our ſtyle, agreeable to that of other Nations, and we hear that it is propoſed to leave out eleven days in the year 1752, viz. from the 9th to the 21ſt of September.

London, Feb. 21. Private letters from France mention the death of the celebrated M. de Voltaire.

A bill is ordered into parliament for the better regulation of trials by juries.

Private letters from Paris inſinuate, that one may build upon the continuance of tranquility 'till about the beginning of May next, by which time France will have all her regiments complete, her cavalry remounted, and ſeveral ſquadrons in readineſs to put to ſea from Breſt, Toulon, and Rochefort; and then, under pretence of aſſiſting a certain power, who ſeems bent upon picking a quarrel about the Germanick laws and conſtitutions, the cards may be ſhuffled ſo as to embroil all Europe.

The ſubſcription to the Britiſh fiſhery at the cloſing the books laſt night amounted to about 200,000.

CHARLES-TOWN, MAY 27.

On Thurſday laſt, a veſſel hired by this government, ſailed for New-York, with the Hon WILLIAM BULL, jun.
